

Steve Sangiacomo

Term expires on December 31, 2021

Steve Sangiacomo is a third generation partner at Sangiacomo Family Vineyards, located in Sonoma, California where his family has farmed since 1927. He grew up on the family ranch and began learning the ropes from his father and extended family at a young age. He oversees all agricultural, strategic and operational aspects of the business, with his brother, Mike. Together they manage over 1600 acres of Sonoma County vineyards, as well as grape sales to more than 70 premium wineries.

Steve is a board member and former chair of the Sonoma County Winegrape Commission, and of the Carneros Wine Alliance. Steve serves on the Sonoma Valley Vintner's and Growers Alliance board. Steve also serves on the Development Committee of the Sonoma Valley Education Foundation.

Steve graduated from St. Mary's College where he studied business and economics. Steve lives in Sonoma with his wife, Connie, and sons, Drew and Sam.
